

Smartphones and tablets are disinfected free of charge

March 12, 2020

Smartphones and tablets are considered to be virus and bacterial spinners. Nevertheless, very few users clean them regularly. To help protect the health of the Swiss population, the mobile clinic is now offering free, free cleaning. A mobile clinic employee disinfects a smartphone

“Against the background of the onset of the Corona crisis, we have to do everything to protect our health,” says Marcel Dossenbach, COO of Mobile Klinik AG. “With our 40 branches, we are present in Switzerland at all relevant shopping miles and transport hubs. I see this as a great opportunity to do a self-evident service with a wide-ranging cleaning campaign for the Swiss population in times of crisis.”

Free cleaning and disinfection of mobile devices is carried out as long as the stock is sufficient. Dossenbach cannot say what the period is and how long the stock lasts. “But we can certainly clean several thousand mobile devices.” And he is betting that other companies will follow his example: “Of course we hope that other providers will follow suit.”
